Library to offer in-depth computer course

NEWTON—An expanded computer class is coming to Main Library in Newton.

“Intermediate Introduction to Computers” will begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 1, for adults who wish to strengthen their computing skills at their own pace. Classes will be scheduled for 90 minutes each week until students complete the course which should take about 15 weeks.

A similar class was held this spring with great success. An informational session will be held at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 25, in the Main Library Auditorium so that prospective students find out more about the class and sign up.

Modules covered will cover such topics as word processing, spreadsheets, information searching and more.

Lynne Bolick Reed, library services coordinator, will lead the sessions.

“Students who complete the class will be eligible to take an assessment test to earn a certificate from Microsoft,” she said.

The class is a non-credit course. Requirements are agility with a computer mouse and familiarity with web site navigation. Students must commit to one 90-minute session weekly and have reading skills adequate to read a newspaper.

Intermediate Introduction to Computers is just one of many computing classes offered by Catawba County Library System throughout the year. For more information contact Reed weekdays at 465-8292.
